

“The last swastika lies burning beneath the Reichstag.

The regime now nothing more than artefacts destined for a museum.

Yet still the suffering they caused continues.

In a futile war against an evil that will now attempt conquest more subtly.

Jaded and burned, I return.

I sustained no mortal wound, yet was shot through the heart.”